

THE OTTAWA ORCHID SOCIETY

The Ottawa Orchid Society (OOS) was founded in 1978 to promote and assist in every way the knowledge, appreciation, culture, study, development, improvement and conservation of orchids. Members come from all walks of life. Over the years, many have become expert growers and constitute a rich resource, sharing their knowledge and experience.

The Ottawa Orchid Society is affiliated with the Canadian Orchid Congress (COC) and with the American Orchid Society (AOS). Through these affiliations, the Society is able to obtain accredited AOS judges for the annual show in Ottawa and world-class speakers for regular meetings.

A Board of Directors manages the affairs of the Society with elections held every two years.

Additional information may be found on the Society web site.

MEETINGS

We meet the third Sunday of every month, excepting June, July and August, from 1:30 p.m. to about 4:00 p.m. at the Tom Brown Arena, 141 Bayview Ave., Ottawa. Guests are always welcome.

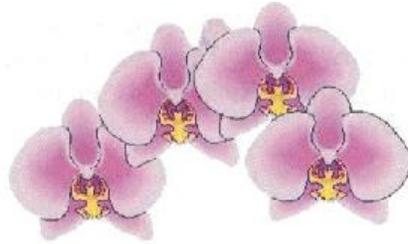

A highlight of each meeting is the Show Table where members bring flowering plants for display and judging. These Show Tables have developed over the years into mini-shows in their own right. Plants are judged in each orchid family class and ribbons are awarded. This is a good opportunity to share knowledge related to specific orchids and their growing conditions.

Programs are varied. Each meeting includes a presentation which can include lectures, demonstrations and hands-on workshops.

Occasionally, international orchid specialists are invited speakers, with plants for sale from their greenhouses. An Orchids 101 workshop for beginners is also held before each meeting. Refreshments are available and a raffle of donated orchid-related material is an added feature at meetings.

A wide selection of orchid plants and grower supplies is available for purchase at monthly meetings. Both members who are vendors and hobbyist members are welcome to participate.

Special activities are also planned throughout the year and can include tours of members' growing areas, daytrips to local orchid sites such as Purdon Fen and the Montreal Botanical Gardens, and group orders from foreign vendors.

ANNUAL SHOW

Our annual orchid show is the major event of the year. Each spring, members, visiting societies and participating vendors present magnificent displays of their prized orchid plants for viewing by the general public and for judging by accredited AOS judges. Orchid-related artwork, photography and handicrafts are included, as well as cut flower arrangements. There are educational exhibits and guided tours. The large number of vendors that attend the annual show sell a wide variety of superior quality plants as well as everything needed for successful orchid growing. Many members enjoy the rewarding experience of working on the organizing of this well-known annual show.

We also participate in shows held by other societies with volunteer members traveling to these shows and preparing OOS displays.

NEWSLETTER

SPIKE, the monthly Society newsletter, is made available on the (OOS) website to all members and to affiliated societies across Canada. This provides monthly communication on Society activities and a wide variety of orchid-related topics. Information is included on bulk purchases, national and international orders and on significant orchid society activities outside of Ottawa.

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP

The OOS offers a stimulating and friendly environment for those who are fascinated by the world of orchids. Members derive special satisfaction from sharing their experiences and working together to improve not only their orchid collections, but also their knowledge and appreciation of these wonderful plants. We are fortunate in Ottawa to have a rich source of experienced and knowledgeable individuals who are available to provide advice and guidance.

ORCHIDS

Orchids are the most spectacular, beautiful and intriguing of all flowers. Some 30,000 species are known from all continents excepting Antarctica. More than forty species have been identified in the National Capital Region. Protection of their wild environment is of vital importance. The Society and individual members are actively involved in conservation activities.

Hobbyists are primarily interested in showy tropical orchids including Cattleya, Cymbidium, Oncidium, Paphiopedilum and Phalaenopsis. There are thousands of hybrids, with new ones being produced annually. Many of these hybrids combine the best features of their parents, allowing growers to produce larger, more perfect flowers in a wide range of colours. Hybrids are often easier to grow than species and will thrive in a wide variety of growing conditions. Plants are readily available and reasonably priced. They may be raised on a windowsill, under artificial lights, in a solarium or a greenhouse.

In past years, orchid growing was often difficult and frustrating. Due to cost and the required expertise, it was restricted to only a few. Today, there are orchids for everyone, to suit their budget and growing conditions.
